HighTower's Pamela Rosenau Named to Financial Times' 2014 List of "Top 100 Women Financial Advisors"

CHICAGO, IL – November 19, 2014 – HighTower (<http://www.hightoweradvisors.com>) announces that Managing Director and Equity Market Strategist Pamela Rosenau is included in the Financial Times' inaugural "Top 100 Women Financial Advisors" feature.

The Financial Times evaluated criteria such as assets under management, years of experience, asset growth, industry certification, compliance record and online accessibility to compile its list of elite women advisors from across the U.S. All advisors named to the "Top 100 Women Financial Advisors" list serve retail, high-net-worth or ultra-high-net-worth clients, and have at least 10 years of experience and $200 million in assets under management.

The full list will be published in the print edition of the Financial Times, and will appear online at <http://www.ft.com>, on November 19, 2014.

"Pamela is an accomplished financial advisor, outstanding team leader and a valuable asset to the greater HighTower family," said Elliot Weissbluth, CEO of HighTower. "We congratulate her on this latest well-deserved accolade."

Ms. Rosenau has been named to the Barron's "Top 100 Women Financial Advisors" list for the past three years, ranking 15th in 2014. She was also featured in the Barron's 2014 "Top 1,200 Advisors by State" compilation, ranking 53rd out of all financial advisors in California. She has been recognized by Barron's six times during her 30-year career.

Ms. Rosenau leads the team at HighTower's Rosenau Group, which manages approximately $1 billion in client assets, and as Equity Market Strategist, she performs due diligence on HighTower's third-party research relationships and selects, monitors and evaluates research providers.
