CHICAGO, IL — June 8, 2015 —HighTower Managing Director and Equity Market Strategist Pamela Rosenau ranks 13th on Barron's annual list of the “Top 100 Women Financial Advisors.” This marks Ms. Rosenau’s fourth consecutive appearance on the list and her 10th Barron's honor.

“Pamela embodies the high standards and deep commitment to clients that make HighTower a sought-after destination for elite advisors,” said Michael Parker, National Director, Enterprise Development. “We congratulate Pamela on her latest recognition as one of the most accomplished and influential women in our profession.”

Barron's selects honorees for inclusion in its “Top 100 Women Financial Advisors” feature using criteria such as assets under management, practice quality and generated revenues. The full list is available at <http://online.barrons.com/report/top-financial-advisors/women/2015>.

Ms. Rosenau ranked 15th on the Barron's 2014 “Top 100 Women Financial Advisors” compilation, and she was named to the magazine’s “Top 1200 Advisors by State” listing earlier this year. Barron's also ranked her 76th on its 2014 list of “Top 100 Independent Advisors.”

Ms. Rosenau’s career in the financial services industry spans more than 30 years. In addition to leading HighTower’s Rosenau Group, which manages approximately $1 billion in client assets, she also applies her equity market expertise to her role conducting due diligence on the firm’s third-party research relationships, adding and pruning research providers as needed. Ms. Rosenau began her career at Wertheim & Co./Schroders PLC, and worked for various other sell-side firms before joining HighTower.
